

Not Quite Card Sharks, Not Quite Guesspionage

Preparation: Gather 4 contestants

While not technically a real game show, “Not Quite” takes elements from various real game shows, so it sort of counts.

We’ve gathered a slew of information through various surveys throughout the run about the chat members watching the stream right now and it’s up to you to determine just what makes them tick.

For each question a contestant must guess a specific number or percentage about the chat or the run. The other 3 contestants must guess if that number is higher or lower than the real number. The guesser gets 1 point for each incorrect answer. The contestant with the most points after 16 questions wins.

Percentages have been rounded to the nearest integer.
